"My dear mother, even the Prayer-Book says a woman may not marry her grand-father."

"Yes my dear, also that a man may not marry his grandmother; but what has that to do with Mr. Lee?"

"Simply that he is old enough to be my grand arter nearly."

"There is great difference certainly, but not quite sufficient for that, Katherine. Mr. Lee is four-and-thirty, and you nearly eighteen."

"My dear mother, I always thought him fifty when I rode his pony years ago."

"Very likely; children's ideas of age are not very correct. They generally think their mother in the dotage at forty. Five years ago he was nine-and-twenty."

"Then such a name, my dear mother. Fancy Michael! It might almost as well be Zedekiah or Nebuchadnezzar at once. I remember your reading a novel with a Nathaniel for a hero; I do not think I could stand Michael for mine; and besides, he is half a widower."

"My dear Katherine, far be it from me to persuade you to marry Mr. Lee, or any one else, only do try and be serious; think quietly about it, and then give me your answer."

Whether it were possible for Katherine to think quietly on any subject whatever just then, I don't know; however, her answer was given, and Mrs. Parker told Mr. Lee her daughter could not make up her mind to say anything but "No." Shortly after Mr. Lee left Oldcourt and went abroad. The only one of the Parker family who bade him farewell was Katherine's little brother Harry, and he announced in the evening:

"I shall be up early to-morrow; I am going up to say good bye to dear Mr. Lee. Will you come, Kate?"

"No, thank you, Harry," Katherine answered, with a look at her mother, "I am not fond of getting up early."

"What a shame! not for once even, and he was so kind to you always. I am so sorry he's going; I hope he won't be long away. I suppose you think yourself too big for his pony now, Katie, as you never ride it. I wonder if I shall be able to have it when he is away."

So early the next morning, a bright one in the middle of February, Harry was off along the lanes and across the fields to Oldcourt. There was a short cut through a wood, which skirted the Pool, to the house. The ground was crisp—just a tinge of white frost—every blade of grass sparkling in the bright sun. There is nothing so beautiful as a white frost, except the spring, when every bud is bursting, and every wood is getting full of wild flowers, and every bird is singing. Tney sing altogether, each its own song, yet none is out of tune, even when the rooks join in. How is it, I wonder?

A tall, dark mark, with a calm, grave face was looking out on the park and woods at Oldcourt—the park and woods that had been his and his fathers' for generations. He did look old for four-and thirty. Many men look asas young at forty. The Lees all tnrn gray soon—it seems to run in some families—and there were some white hairs already showing among the black. The face looked almost stern, till two little hands seized hold of one of his, then it looked down with a kindly smile on the earry visitoe.

"Ah' Harry, my boy, I thought I should not see you again!"

"My dear old Micheal, did you think I would let you go without saying a regular good-by. What a brute you must think me?"

"No, I do not. but it is early for you. You shall have some breakfast with me, for I had nearly forgotten it."

So they sat down, and Michael Lee told Harry he was to fish with his keeper George Mitford, whenever he liked, and Frisky he was to consider his own whilst he was away; and at that up jumped Harry and threw his arms around his neck and kissed him.

"I can't think why you are going away," said the boy. "I know you're sorry. I saw your race as I came in. Why are you going?"

"Why? Everybody goes aboroad sometimes, Harry. I shall be home again before Christmas, I [dare say. What shall I bring you?—the falling tower of Pisa, or Mont Blanc?"

"No, no; but I should like some red hot lava from Mount Vesuvius, and a Mount St. Bernard dog; only a puppy, Michael. Are there any puppies, I wonder: you only read of the big dogs, but I daresay there are some puppies sometimes; don't you think there must be?"

Michael Lee thought there certainly could not be always big dogs unless there were puppies occasionally.

"Can you bring some red hot-lava in your portmanteau, Michael? I want it to color of that picture in your bedroom of Mount Vesuvius with the blue sky; will you take an empty jam pot from Mrs Wilkins and fill it full for me? It will burn your clothes if you have it loose. won't it?"

Michael Lee thought it very probably would and then he had to explain it would puzzle Michael Scott himself to bring him red-hot lava the color of Mount Vesuvius in the picture with the blue sky. Of course Harry asked who Michael Scott was? and his namesake had to explain how one word of his had cleft, not Mount Vesuvius, but the Elldon Hills in three, and how when his horse stamped his foot, the bells in Notre Dame rang; and how he had told the Old Gentleman to mind his own business and carry him across the sea; and just then the dogcart came round to the door, and Michael Lee said:

"Here comes, not Diabolus, Harry, but Black Rover, and I must mount and fly, or I shall miss the train. Tell Mrs. Parker I was sorry not to see her to say good-bye, and I hope she will come and take any flowers she likes; see, here is a note I had written, and was going to send; you take it for me; don't lose it."

"Oh no, I won't lose it, and Michael, may Katie ride Frisky?"

"I do not think your sister cares for hi m now, Harry."

There was a change in the tone of voice; a thing children are very quick in noticing.

"Are you vexed with Katie?" said the boy. "She was very fond of Frisky. I can romember, a long, long time ago—I could only have been a little fellow quite, about five or something of that sort, for I had pinafores—when she used to ride Friskie, and she liked it so much; and she used to fish then, and row the boat across the pool. I can't think why she never does anything jolly now, can you, Michael?"

Michael swallowed his hot tea without answering; then the boy clung to him to say good-bye.

"I'll take you through the park, and drop you at the gate, Harry;" and the thought of that brought a smile instead of the salt tears that had begun to come.

"I won't cry, Michael; I shall be nine my next birth day."

"It wanted 345 days to his next birthday!" But when he was dropped at the gate, and he and old Sarah at the lodge had watched the dogcart disappear, and he saw her shake her head and wipe her eyes, and heard her say: "There goes a good gentleman, if ever there was one in this world, or the next!" he could not stand it; and, after a good cry, he told Sarah that he was to ride Frisky, and go fishing with George Milford; but all the fish he caught he should keep for Mr. Lee; he would not let Susan cook one, for he would much rather Mr. Lee had them all! which determination so comforted him, that he looked at Sarah's Polish hens, admired their topknots, and then went on his way home.

Mr. Parker had been Michael Lee's tutor. At his death his wife was left with one daughter of ten and a baby a few months old. I may as well say how they died. The fever was bad in the village. John Brown's wife died of it and her two children. William Hodge, the drunken blacksmith, got it next, and he died. Then three or four cottage down that narrow lane with the pigsties, and that pond which was always green and the water always black, they got it. Then Mr. Harvey, who came from Manchester, and bought a good deal of land in Leamington, and built a large house, and stables, and greenhouses, and hothouses, and ice houses, and all that "those cottages down the narrow lane belonged to him," his little daughter took it. He never let her go out of his own grounds, and thought there was, what he called, "no chance" of her getting it; but she did; and there is a little tomb with a white cross on it in the church at Leamington; and the cottages are comfortable now, and the pigsties at the end of the garden "not up against the one bedroom on the ground-floor," and the pond has been drained, and Mr. Harvey is not what he was when the fever began, and he thanks God for it often, on his knees, though he is lonely, very lonely, never hearing her little feet pattering about new, except in his dreams. Many others had it, and Mrs. Parker was frightened. Four children under eight years old she had of her own and she wished there were some Sisters of Mercy at Leamington, as there were at some places, who could take the good soup and wine to the poor sick ones, without the terrible fear of pulling and gnawing at their hearts all the time that she could not help it, though her husband said:

"My dear, I change my coat, I wash my hands and face, and then I trust."

She tried to trust; but somehow the fear clung to her and on Sunday night Arthur said:

"Mother, my throat is so sore." He was only three and a half, and she tried to hope he did not know where his throat was, and that he would put his hand to his back. or leg, or anywhere else, only not to his throat, and she said:

"Where, my darling; where is it sore?" And the child put up his hand, and said:

"I mean where my dinner goes down mother. And then she knew her boy had got the fever; and the next day Mary said:

"Mother, just look what a lump there is under my ear, by my cheek, and it hurts me so when I swallow; I hope I am not going to be ill, lik papa said poor little Mary Brown was." And she knew Mary had the fever too.

Next Sunday, after the afternoon service, Arthur was buried. They had an old fashioned way of ringing the bells at Leamington; they do not everywhere; but it was an old fashioned place, and old fashions about church things are best. They rang the curfew at Leamington always from Advent to Lent, and they tolled the bell, when there was to be a funeral, all day, until the mourners and the coffin could be seen coming near the church; and then they rang a joyful peal for a minute or so—not like a wedding, or any other peal; and it always sounded like a welcome—like the angels welcoming one more—one more who had passed through the waves of this troublesome world, and had reached the heaven where we all would be. So sitting by little Mary's bed, wetting her hot lips, the mother heard the joyful peal ring out for Arthur, and she knelt down by Mary and kissed her hot cheek; and Mary heard the bells, too, and she opened her eyes, and said:

"Arthur will be with the daisies soon, mother, he was so fond of daisies, and those double red ones."

Mary died that evening—Sunday evening; and when all was over, and the little fair thing lay with her little hands crossed on her breast, the mother turned away to change her dress, and wash her face and hands, and to trust. Trust to Him who had only taken what He had given. She might go and look at her youngest now; she was no longer needed in the sick room—it was empty. The little merry laugh as she went along the passage! Baby should be asleep; but babies in summer, in the long days so light, do not always do what they ought to do about going to sleep, and baby was laughing as she reached the door! So strange it sounded to hear a laugh then, even from a baby. Sitting up in his little crib, was the two-year old baby, hugging the kitten which had been beside little Mary, and fondled to the last. By the next Sunday, two more were with the daisies beside Arthur, and the eldest Katherine, the only child left them.

Harry was born a year after, and Mr. Parker died, and then the widow, with her two children, returned to the neighborhood of her old home, where her husband had been curate, and afterwards tutor to Mr. Lee. Mr. Lee was one of the first to welcome Mrs. Parker; a sad welcome to the place where her early, happy days had been spent. He had a sincere regard for his tutor, and every little attention in his power he bestowed on Mrs. Parker. There was a quiet old pony for Katherine to ride, his park was open to her and her mother; some of the choicest flowers were always on her table. It was no self-denial, he had plenty of everything; but he had a way of being kind—he always thought of others—and his way of being kind and thoughtful was never disagreeable; with some people it is. He and Katherine were soon great friends. As she grew older, and the old pony more stupid, a younger one took its place; the "Frisbie" of which we have heard, and fishing and boasting at Oldcourt were among her greatest pleasures. Then came the news of Mr. Lee's approaching marriage. It was quite true he told Mrs. Parker of it himself, all joy and happiness! and two months after the bells at Oldcourt were toiling for her who was to have been mistress there so soon—tolling for the bride elect.

Katherine was sixteen then, and Mrs. Parker moved to London for a twelve month, to give her the advantage of some better masters than Oldcourt afforded. At the end of that time she returned to her favorite cottage, and the pony, fishing and boating were transferred to Harry, who was delighted with everything after the confinement of London. A grave, quiet man was Michael Lee now; it was strange a child like Harry should be so devoted to him, yet so it was. Harry was his constant companion through his woods, marking the trees, carrying his fishing basket, perfectly satisfied in his own mind he was of great use and assistance to Mr. Lee, whom he very soon learnt to call Michael; and the grave, quiet man grew very fond of the boy, partly on his own account, for all loved Harry, and partly ere many months were over, for the sake of his sister; and so at last he spoke to Mrs. Parker. Katherine refused him, and he went abroad. Harry begged to write to him, and Michael Lee answered his letters, which contained a great deal of news of various kinds; such as the ewe with the black mark on her leg had three lambs again this year, and one was fed with a teapot. There was a blackbird's nest in one of the red rhododendrons. Frisky was in great beauty, but it was very difficult to catch him now, as he would not come for corn when there was so much grass; he found the best way was to blow a cow's horn trumpet behind a bush, for Frisky came to see what the noise was, thinking the hounds were out, Harry believed, and then he was easily taken. A corncrake had her legs mown off, sitting rn her nest, by Thomas Smith, when they were mowing the mill meadow, and Harry had taken some of the eggs to see if Katie's bantum would hatch them &c., &c., Then came an account of a bad cold he had caught somehow, he could not tell how; boys never can; but he had not been allowed to go out fishing for some time, nor in the boat with George Mitford. George had had a bad finger, but it was better, and he had a new baby, and Venus had puppies. It (the baby) was christened last Sunday; it was a boy, which was much better than a girl, as it might be a keeper too some day. They were all beauties, especially one with a black nose; and had he been to Mount St. Bernard yet?

Harry's next letter was finished by Mrs. Parker, and she told Mr. Lee the cold had become a cough, and that Dr. Watson thought it would be more prudent for him to winter at the seaside. They were going to Beaumaris the end of September; and when Michael Lee received this letter he felt sure Harry was worse than his mother thought. During that winter at Beaumarais Harry had several letters from Mr. Lee. He thought his handwriting was changed, or that he was writing larger for him because he was a child; but he could always read Michael's writing, he said, and was rather affronted. Then he did not hear for a long time, and at last he received a few lines, telling him he had been ill, and that Harry must not think he had forgotten him if he did not hear, for the doctor forbade his writing; it hurt his eyes.

[TO BE CONTINUED IN OUR NEXT.]

A PARIS prestidigitateur, named Robin, has invented a new, and startling method of spirit-rapping. He brings on the stage the drum of a Zouave, stated to have been killed at Inkerman, and the noisy instrument is ready to answer any and every question concerning the famous charge at Balaclava, and the sufferings in the other world. Nobody stands nigh while the sticks execute, of their own accord, the most marvelous rolls and marches.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT.—A Massasachusetts Judge, on circuit, as he rode to the door of an inn, saw the landlady's daughter jump over the fence. "Do that again, Sallie, and I'll marry you," said the Judge. The girl again leaped the fence. The Judge was as good as his word, and a year from that day married the light-heeled Sallie.

HOW ARE YOU GREENBACKS.—An exchange says:

A lady the other day entered a dry goods store and bought five dollars worth of goods giving in payment a ten dollar gold piece. The man coolly opened his drawer and gave her a ten dollar greenback in exchange. Now the question arises, did the lady get her goods for nothing, or is a ten dollar greenback worth only five dollars? This is a practical demonstration of the "soundest and best currency in the world."

---

"So you are going to teach school? said a young lady to her maiden aunt.

"Yes, was the answer."

"Well, for my part, sooner than do that, I would marry a widower with nine children."

"I would prefer that part myself," was the quite reply, "but where is the widower, dear?"

---

HOW TO DISTINGUISH THEM.—At the Sanitary Fair in New York the married ladies were distinguished by black aprons, the unmarried by white; California and other widows by aprons hemmed with yellow.

---

"WELL, sir," said Dunner to his errand boy, "did you present the account to Mr. Dunner?" "Yes, sir." And what did he say?" "He told me to go to the devil, sir." "And what did you do then?" "I came to you tuen, sir, of course."

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER.

SATURDAY, JUNE, 11th, 1864.

The next number of this paper will be published in Woodland.

Thanks to Chas. F. Reed, for the Sacramento Union of yesterday

Let not the Government, in fixing the tax. forget carpets. They can stand a large amount of tacks.

Likeness.—We would call the attention to the advertisement of H. S. Beals of Sacramento, in another column.

Last year the shipments of specie to Virginia City averaged $15,000 daily. This year they have not averaged more than $5,000 daily.

Union State Convention.—The Union State Convention, for the nomination of Electors, has been called to meet in Sacramento on the 10th of August.

Aaron Burr, late merchant of Austin (N. T.) files a petition of insolvency in San Francisco. Debts $18,000; assets, $1,600. Depreciation in mining stocks was the cause of the failure.

Quick Travel.—Passengers who leaves Sacramento by the Pacific Railroad cars at a quarter past six in the morning are landed in Virginia City at half past two the next morning.

The crop of maple sugar at the North will this year exceed 25,000,000 pounds, and will go far towards supplying the deficiency caused by the non-production of sugar at the South.

The assessed valuation of the real property in the State of New York is officially announced at $1,454,454,818. Of this amount New York city has over one-third, or $574,416,030.

Income Tax for 1863.—S. F. Taylor, U. S. Assistant Assessor is notifying all persons to prepare their statements and present the same at (Sheriff's Office) Woodland on or before the 20th inst.,

Found Dead.—A man named James Forte was found dead in his sleeping apartment at Petaluma, May 24th. His death was probably from natural causes. He left a wife and two daughters residing near Springfield, Mass.

Sealed Proposals.—Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Swamp Land Commissioners, in Sacramento, until the 12th July 1864 for the construction of 74 miles of Levee and 23 miles of Canal. For particulars see advertisement in another column.

Terrible Accident.—A man named M. S. Canahan fell down the shaft of the Jewett claim, near Virginia City, on Wednesday of last week. He fell a distance of eighty feet from a scaffolding, which gave away under him. He built the scaffold himself.

The Bank of Mexico.—It is reported that the Rothchilds have obtained a privilege from the Regency, to be approved of by the Emperor Maximilian, to establish a banking house, to be called the "Bank of Mexico," with a capital of $60,000,000.

A real Irishman, unable to speak or understand a word of English, but who could talk glibly enough in Gaelic, was enlisted in New York a day or two since. He was very much disappointed when it was decided that he could not become a soldier on account of his inability to understand the orders.

Distances from Richmond.—To Petersburg, 22 miles; White House, 24; Fredericksburg, 60; Guinness Station, 48; Milford, 38; Chesterfield, 25; Hanover Junction, 23; Taylorsville, 20; Hungary, 8; Porthall, 16; Frederickshall, 50; Louisa Court House, 62; Gordonsville, 76; Beaver Dam 40;

It was reported in San Francisco, on Friday, that the new Mariposa company, formed in New York, have purchased the title of Mark Brumagim and Trenor W. Park to the Las Mariposas estate, or Fremont grant which title is adverse to that heretofore held by them. The amount of purchase money is stated at the enormous sum of $350,000 in gold coin.

The First Minnesota Regiment of volunteers, which was recently sent home to recruit, is stated to have been in 25 battles, beginning with the first battle of Bull Run, and ending with the battle at Bristow Station last Autumn. They have had over 1,800 men on their list since they entered the service, and now have less than 300 left—the 1,500 absent ones, with the exception of about 60 invalided men, having all perished in battle or from wounds received in battle.

Notice,—We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement in another column of Messrs Field & Co., late A. Despecher & Field, having removed to the large and spacious Building No. 75 & 77 J street, Sacramento, being one of the finest stores in the State and we are assured that the Wines, Brandies etc., etc., cannot be excelled by any House.

Must be Stamped.—The Appeal says that instructions have been sent from the Department at Washington, that all city, town, and other corporation scrip, must bear the same stamp as those used on mortgages. If this is so, it is very important to know, as it will embrace county scrip, and the Auditor will be obliged to stamp all warrants issued—of course it will be at the expense of the person in whose favor it is drawn.

National Anniversary.

We hear of preparations for celebrating the Fourth of July, in but few places compared to former years. The scarcity of money throughout the moral districts of our country is doubtless the chief cause. It is a characteristic of the American people to celebrate the birth day of our National Independence, and for which purpose they will, generally contribute liberally, and we need no better proof that money is scarce and difficult to obtain, than is presented in the fact that so many of the people are compelled to forego the annual patriotic exhibition, that are want to greet the heart on this festive day, for be it remembered the day comes and goes whether we are prepared to welcome it or not. We hear that steps are being taken to ascertain whether or not a celebration can be gotten up in this place, if determined to proceed with it, due notice will be given.

The fourth Industrial Exhibition under the direction of the Mechanics' Institue will be opened on Tuesday the 30th day of August, 1864, in San Francisco. The California Steam Navigation, the San Francisco and San Jose Railroad and other transportation companies will, with commendable liberality, transport all articles intended exclusively for exhibition, free of charge. All communications to be addressed to Wm. Patton corresponding Secretary.

Fremont's Gun.—A twleve-pound cannon was discovered a year or two ago in an unfrequented locality near Walker's River by a party of men, and it was subsequently ascertained that it was a gun abandoned by John C. Fremont on one of his famous path-finding expeditions, when he ascended Walker's River, near to its head, and proceeding down the American river into California, to find a way across the Sierra Nevadas. It was brought to this city, and has ever since been in the possession of Young American Engine Company No. 2, who furnished it with a new gun carriage at considerable expense. It was only used on rare occasions, such as firing salutes at daybreak on the Fourth of July, celebrating Federal victories, etc. The Provost Guard took it in charge yesterday, and it is now at their new quarters at the lower end of Union street.—Virginia Union.

Railroad Subscription.—The Supreme Court having issued a peremptory mandamus to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, compelling that body to make subscription to the stock of the Central Pacific Railroad, the Board has appointed a committee to compromise the matter as provided by Act of the last Legislature. The railroad company is not compelled to accept any compromise, and may insist upon the subscription as voted for by the people. Gov. Stanford, President of the road, is now below, to see that the matter properly arranged. Some people of San Francisco appear to take great delight in throwing obstacles in the way of the Pacific Railroad, but the work goes on in spite of them —Bee.

Once upon a time there dwelt in the village of L——a fellow who was known as old Pete. He was noted for knowing everything that happened before anybody else. One day, as he was in the village tavern—a favorite resort with him, for he could always find some one there to listen to his big yarns—a gentleman there spoke of a hydraulic ram that he saw in the city.

"What in the thunder is that?" asked a man who was present.

Now was the time for old Pete; so, drawing himself up and assuming an air of importance, he said:

"Why, didn't you ever see one o' them high drawlick rams? Why, way down South, where I was several years ago, they didn't raise any other kind; and I've seem 'em so big that they'd shear nigh onto forty pounds o' wool!"

Rice.—Rice was introduced into South Carolina by mere accident. In 1696 the master of a vessel from Madagascar landed about half a bushel of an excellent kind, from which small beginning sprung up an immense source of wealth, both to the agriculturists and merchants of the Southern States. Within little more than half a century from that time 120,000 barrels of rice were exported in one year from South Carolina, and 18,000 from Georgia, all from the remnant of a sea store left in the bottom of a sack.

A heavy grand jury recently met in Burlington Co., New Jersey. Of the whole 24 men the lightest weighed 210 pounds. One weighed 284, another 276, one 266, and two each 260 pounds. Eight of the number weigned over 250 pounds. The aggregate weight of the 24 was 5,866—an average weight of 245 pounds to each man.

The Schooner Alfred Adams, which arrived at San Francisco on the 5th, from Santa Cruz, brought 1,200 kegs California powder, the first considerable shipment from the new mill in the San Lorenzo valley.

Funded Debt.—The debt of Tehama county thus far funded by the Commissioners, amounts to a little over $51,000. This comprises about all the debt—there is not a thousand dollars back, is if there is a hundred. The interest increases the amount to about $60,000—$1,000 of this amount is paid out of the Treasury, as fractional amounts.—Independent.

The Baltimore Convention.

On Wednesday last the National Union Convention re-assembled at Baltimore, The following we take from the Union's despatches:

The Committee on Order of Business reported, and after being considered the report was adopted.

The Radical Delegation from Missouri was admitted, and delegations from Virginia, Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee were admitted and conceded the right to vote.

The report of the Committee on Credentials was then adopted.

Raymond of New York, from the Committee on Resolutions, reported the following:

Resolved, That it is the highest duty of every American citizen to maintain, against all their enemies the integrity of the Union and the paramount authority of the Constitution of the United States, and that, laying aside all differences of political opinion we pledge ourselves as Union men, animated by a common sentiment and aiming at a common object, to do everything in our power to aid the Government in quelling by force of arms the existing rebellion now waging against its authority. and in bringing to the punishment due to their crimes the rebels and traitors arrayed against it.

Resolved, That we approve the determination of the United States Government not to compromise with rebels or to offer any terms of peace, except such as may be based upon an unconditional surrender, [suspension] of their hostelities and a return to their just allegiance to the Constitution and laws of the United States. and that we call upon the Government to maintain this position and to prosecute the war with the utmost possible vigor to the complete suppression of the rebellion, in full reliance upon the self-sacrifice patriotism, heroic valor and undying devotion of the American people to their country and its free institutions.

Resolved, That as slavery was the cause, and now constitutes the strength of this rebellion, and must be always and everywhere hostile to the principles, of Republican Government, justice and National safety demand its utter extirpation from the soil of the Republic, and that we uphold and maintain the Acts and proclamations by which the Government, in its own defense, has aimed a death blow at the gigantic evil. We are in favor, furthermore, of such amendments to the Constitution, to be made by the people in confirmity with its provisions as shall terminate and forever prohibit the existence of Slavery within the limits or jurisdiction of the United States.

The next resolution thanks the soldiers and sailors of the army and navy, &c., &c.

The following resolution approves the practical wisdom and unselfish patriotism of Abraham Lincoln, &c.

Resolved, That the Government owes to all men employed in its armies, without regard to color, a full protection of the laws of war, and that any violation of these laws by rebels should be made the subject of full and prompt redress.

The next resolution favors the fostering and encouraging of Foreign emigration.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the speedy construction of the Railroad to the Pacific.

Resolved, That the National faith, pledged for the redemption of the public debt must be kept inviolate and for this purpose we recommend economy, rigid responsibility in public expenditures, a vigorous and just system of taxation.

Resolved, That it is the duty of every loyal State to sustain the credit of the Government and promote the use of the National currency.

Resolved, That we approve the position taken by the Government that the people of the United States can never regard with indifference an attempt of any European power to overthrow by force, or suppliant by fraud, the institutions of any republican Government on the Western continent, and that they will view with extreme jealousy as menacing to the peace and independence of our own country the efforts of any such Power to obtain a foothold for monarchical Governments to sustain a foreign military force in or near proximity to the United States.

On motion, the resolutions were adopted by acclamation.

A motion was made to proceed at once to the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President.

Cameron of Pennsylvania, offered a substitute that Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin be declared the unanimous choice of the Union party for President and Vice President.

Calls were made for a divison of the question, in order to vote separately.

Stevens, of Pennsylvania, moved to lay on the table.

Cameron withdrew his motion and offered a substitute that Linclon be declared the unanimous choice of the Union party as the nominee for President.

As the question was about being taken, Raymond, of New York, urged that a vote be taken by States, as it had been said there was a disposition to rush the nomination of Lincoln through the Convention and stifle any contrary expression of sentiment.

The proposition was well received, amid much confusion.

The States were called and the result was: For Lincoln, four hundred and ninety-seven; for Gen. Grant, 22, all from Missouri.

On motion, the vote was declared unanimous.

The Convention then proceeded to vote for a candidate for Vice President.

Andrew Johnson, of Tennessee; unanimously was declared the choice of the Convention.

After the election of a National Committee and the adoption of various resolutions of thanks, the Convention adjourned sine die.

Secretary Chase sold a million in gold at New York, on June 2d, at 90 and 91.

A one legged gentleman died suddenly in France a tong time ago. His sister on looking over his will, discovered that in the wooden leg was deposited 5,600 francs.

At the Gould & Curry mine, Virginia City, on Wednesday evening, Dennis Hickey fell down the shaft and was instantly killed. He leaves a wife and five children who are en route across the plains.

The Cleveland Convention.

The following proceedings of the Cleveland Convention, we copy from the Union's dispatches.

Cleveland, (O.) May 31st.

The Radical Convention was called to order at 11 o'clock A. M. Ex-Governor Johnson of Pennsylvania was chosen temporary Chairman. Between two and four hundred delegates were present. Some discussion occurred on a motion to appoint a Committee on Credentials, many delegates opposing it on the ground that many citizens were present, representing political organizations in several States, and yet were not furnished with credentials. It was finally resolved to enroll the names of all present, the only credentials required being a declaration that the delegates came in response to calls for the Cleveland Convention.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported for President, John Cochrane, of New York, and eighteen Vice Presidents and four Secretaries. Cochrane returned thanks for the honor conferred, and addressed the Convention at considerable length.

At the afternoon session the Committee on Credentials reported that they had found the following States represented: Ohio, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Iowa, Missouri, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Maine, Indiana, New Hampshire, and the District of Columbia

The Committee on resolutions reported sundry rules for the government of the Convention, recommending the rules of the House of Representatives, and to take votes for candidates by States, according to the representation in Congress. This was opposed to by several delegates, who favored voting as a great National Mass Convention, each individual to have an equal voice with his associates. After debate, the objectionable clauses were stricken out. The following is the substance of the resolutions reported from the Committee:

First—That the Federal Union shall be preserved.

Second—That the Constitution and laws of the United States must be observed and obeyed.

Third—That the rebellion must be suppressed by force of arms and without compromise.

Fourth—That the rights of free speech, free press and habeas corpus must be held inviolate save in districts where martial law has been proclaimed.

Fifth—That the rebellion has destroyed slavery, and the Federal Constitution should be amended to prohibit its establishment and to secure to all men absolute equality before the law.

Sixth—That integrity and economy are demanded at all times in the administration of the Government, and that in time of war the want of them is criminal.

Seventh—Trials by jury, even for crime, and subject to law, is a recognized principle of American liberty; any violation of it cannot be overlooked and go unrebuked.

Eighth—That the National policy known as the Monroe doctrine has become a recognized principle, and that the establishment of an anti-republican Government on this continent by any foreign power, cannot be tolerated.

Ninth—That the gratitude and support of the nation are due to the brave soldiers and earnest leaders of the Union army and Navy for their heroic achievements in defense of an imperiled country.

Tenth—This favors the one-term policy for the Presidency.

Eleventh—That the Constitution should be so amended that the President and Vice President shall be elected by the direct vote of the people.

Twelfth—That the question of the reconstruction of the rebellious States belongs to the people, through the representatives in Congress, and not to the Executive.

Thirteenth—That the confiscation of the lands of the rebels, and their distribution among soldiers and actual settlers, is a measure of justice.

Carroll, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, stated that the Committe were unanimous on all except the thirteenth resolution. As a matter of expediency, it was thought advisable not to recommend it, but the majority instructed him to report it for the consideration of the Convention. The resolutions were voted on separately and adopted.

A motion that the Convention proceed to the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President was carried, after some opposition, some delegates considering that it would be better policy to await the action of the Baltimore Convention, believing any nominations at present premature and calculated to defeat the object of the Convention.

Colonel Moss, of Missouri, moved that John C. Fremont be declared the nominee of the Convention for President of the United States.

An amendment was offered that the nomination be referred to a Convention to be held at Cleveland on the first Wednesday in September. Lost—only nine votes being cast in the affirmative. A motion to adjourn was lost.

The nomination of Fremont was then made by acclamation.

John Cochrane, of New York; Gratz Brown, of Missouri, and B. F. Butler, of Massachusetts, were named for Vice President.

Cochrane begged leave to retire, and Gilbert, of New York, took the chair.

The nomination of Cochrane was confirmed with but few negative votes.

At the evening session the following individuals were appointed a National Central Committee: New York—Edward Gilbert, Walter H. Shupe and Frederick Kopp; Ohio—Bird B. Chapman; Missouri—Emil Protorius, Chase Moss and James Taussig; Kansas—James F. Leggett; New Jersey—L. Greiner; Pennsylvania—J. W. Barker; Massachusetts—Wendell Phillips; Iowa—J. P. Steibold; Maryland—William Snether; Indiana—Charles Post; Illinois—Caspar Butz.

Gilbert reported the name of the party as the "Radical Democracy," which was adopted by the Convention. After some further unimportant business, the Convention adjourned sine die.

Reclamation of Swamp Land District No. 18.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Board of Swamp Land Commissioners until the 12th day of July 1864 at 2 o'clock P. M., for the construction of 74 miles of Levee on the Sacramento River, and 22 miles of Canal through the main Tule: according to the plans and specifications of Amos Matthews Engineer: adopted by said Board and now on file in County Clerk's Office of Yolo County, at which time Contracts will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder; in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature approved May 13th, 1861. Amended April 25th, 1863.

JOHN HOAGLAND,

Junell-td Pres't of S. L. Com.

THE NEW MEXICAN EMPIRE.—The new Sovereign has consented to renounce his rights to the throne of Austria, as well as his share of the family heritage, said to amount to 20 millions of florins, but to retain is income of $12,000 per annum. The renunciation of the crown, however, may be repealed in the event of his resigning the throne before the term of six years. If a country in which political changes were so frequent can manage to get on without revolution or serious insurrection for so long a period, we may anticipate a long and tranquil reign for its new Sovereign. Mexican stock on the London Stock Exchange has been especially active, and closed at 47¼ to ½—an improvement of 1 per cent., caused chiefly by calculations as to the value of the old debt relatively to that of the new, which it is said will have every possible support that the French Government have the power to accord to it. The convention between France and Mexico states that the French troops are to be reduced as soon as possible to 25,000 men, including the foreign legion. The French troops will gradually evacuate Mexico, as the organization of the Mexican troops proceeds. The foreign legion, composed of 8,000 men will remain in Mexico six years after the reeall of all other troops. Wherever the garrison of a place may not be exclusively Mexican, the commandant will be a Frenchman. The French commanders will not be able to intervene in the Mexican administration. The expense the French expedition until July, 1[illegible]. is fixed at 370,000,000f. After July, 1864, Mexican will pay an annual indemnity of 1,000f. for each French soldier. The Mexican Government will pay annually 25,000,000f., in cash, in liquidation of the sums due to France. The convention further states that a committee will examine the claims of French subjects and the indemnities due them. The interest on Treasury bonds has been fixed at four per cent. for three to five months, and at 4½ per cent. for six to twelve months.

Senor Hidalgo had a private audience of the Emperor on the 17th of April, and remitted to His Majesty his credentials as Minister in Paris of the Emperor of Mexico, whose ascension to the throne he officially notified. The Paris Moniteur of April 16 publishes a decree of the Emperor Maximilian, creating a committee at Paris deputed to form "a great book" of the foreign public debt of Mexico. Relative to the Mexican loan of 200,000,000f, 6,600,000f. in six per cent. Rente will be inscribed in the book to the credit of the French Government, who will give in exchange a receipt for 66,000,000f. applicable to the diplomatic convention of the 10th of April. Another decree of the Emperor of Mexico orders that 20 half yearly coupons due to the Mexican bond holders are to be consolidated into New Three Per Cent. Stock at an issuing price of 60 stock for each £100 coupon.

Several of the great ironworks in Paris are employed in the manufacture of improved machinery for working the mines in Mexico.

Prince Charles Buonaparte, cousin of the Emperor, had arrived at Martinique with the regiment of which he is captain on board of the Darien, en route for Mexico —S. F. News Letter

POISONING CHILDREN AND SQUIRRELS The San Jose Mercury says:—

"We are requested by one of our principal physicians to caution farmers and others in the use of deadly poisons for extermination of squirrels, gophers, rats, etc., Several instances have occurred, recently, where children have been poisoned as the result of this practice. A child died near this city, last week, from the effects of strychnine; and it was but a few months since that we had occasion to notice a narrow escape of a whole family of children from the effects of arsenic, which had been mixed with shorts to poison rats, and placed under the house, as it was supposed, beyond their reach. There is another and more effectual method for killing squirrels than by poison, recently invented, and in use in other localities. It consists of a hollow tin cylinder, with a bellows attached, by which means the smoke from a deadly chemical preparation, burning within the cylinder, is forced into the holes frequented by the pests. It is said to work admirably. At any rate we can get along with squirrels better than without children. The use of strychinine, phosphorus and arsenic is attended with so much risk that it ought to be abandoned."

FUNERAL OF JUDGE RALSTON.—The Virginia (N. T.) Enterprise has a dispatch dated Austin, June 2d, which says:

"The funeral of Judge Ralston this afternoon was attended by the Masons, the bar, the firemen and other citizens. The dead body was found by searching two hundred miles by east beyond the town of San Antonio, and had been buried by the Indians to save it from mutilation by animals They said his money and watch were destroyed by the Indians. Ralston lost his way and died of fatigue and exposure. The Indians found him wandering and asked him to their lodges. He refused in incoherent language, and was found dead next morning."

IN Portland, Oregon, May 24th, wheat sold in quantity for one dollar per bushel, and oats for sixty-five cents.

TO SCHOOL TEACHERS AND TRUSTEES.—The following documents connected with school business require to be stamped. The attention of school officers is called to the list, for without stamps of the value given below, the documents are invalid: Bonds for the Collectors of District Schools tax, 50 cents; bonds of Treasurers of School Districts, 50 cents; leases of houses and lots for schools, for any term not exceeding three years, one dollar. Agreements or contracts with contractors to build school houses, or repair them, when there is a written agreement for that purpose, require a five cent stamp on each page. Agreements or contracts between Teachers and Boards of Trustees, 5 cents; Public School Teacher's oath of allegiance, 5 cents; School Census Marshal's Report, 5 cents; Report of District School Trustees, 5 cents; Trustees' Certificate of School 5 cents; appointment of Proxy Report of Trustees, 5 cents; Teacher's made to the Text-books used in school Superintendent of Public Instruction, 5 cents; Teacher's Certificate of Qualification, 5 cents; Annual Report of County Superintendent 5 cents.—Stockton Independent.

The Departed.

BY LOTTIE LINWOOD.

They came to me at night fall,
The dear, departed dead,
No mortal eye may see them,
Nor hear their noiseless tread;
I feell their cool, white fingers
Upon my brow again,
And blessed words seem hushing
Life's fever-heat, and pain.

Oh! sing not in the night fall,
Gay songs of hope and life,
Nor tell me of its tumult,
Its pleasures, and its strife,
For I hear gentle beings,
Whose peaceful ministry
Is truer, dearer, purer,
Than all beneath the sky.

They come to me at night-fall,
The beautiful from Heaven—
Those who in Love's sweet moments
From earth and me were riven;
And while I long to clasp them,
And call them mine again,
I hear their low words hushing
Life's restless moan of pain.

Humors of the Day.

WHAT creatures have the greatest power to charm? Women and snakes.

WHEN we see a woman with sleeves as big as mealbags, we are not disposed to pin our faith upon them.

A female volunteer was detected by attempting to put her pants on over her head.

MRS. PARTINGTON says that because dancing-girls are stars, it is no reason why they should be regarded as heavenly bodies.

IF you want to know a woman's true character, linger after her guests are gone, and listen to what she has to say about them.

"Do you believe, sir, that the dead ever walk after death?" No doubt of it, madam; I have heard the Dead March in Saul."

A YOUNG man out West says his aunt has promised him a deed of sixty acres of land if he will enlist. Indeed! she is a sixty-acre war aunt.

A thrifty wife wonders why the men can't manage to do something useful. Might they not as well amuse themselves in smoking hams as smoking cigars!

GOOD BY, DIXIE.—A printer hands in for our colums the following: "Going to Lee-ward—the Confederate ship of State."

PASSION looks not beyond the moment of its existence. Better, it says, the kisses of love to-day, than the felicities of heaven afar off.

THE reason why woman has her way so much oftener than man is that both he and she are conscious that her way is the best.

"NEVER judge from manners," said Lord Byron, "for I once had my pocket picked by the civilest gentleman I ever met with."

AT a young ladies' seminary, a few days since, during an examination in history, one of the most promising pupils was interrogated:

"Mary, did Martin Luther die a natural death?"

"No," was the prompt reply; "he was excommunicated by a bull."

AN Irish piper, who now and then indulged in a glass too much, was accosted by a gentleman with—"Pat, what makes your face so red?" "Plase your Honor, I always blush when I spakes to to gintlemen."

THE FOUR SEASONS,—Schoolmaster: "Come here, boy, and tell me the names of the four seasons." Young prodigy: "Pepper, mus'ard, salt, and vinegar; them's what mother season with.

AN exchange paper says that "a thief was recently caught in Philadelphia with over four hundred thousand dollars in gold in his pockets? That thief must have been a stalwart fellow, and his pockets must have been stupendously large and strong. Four hundred thousand dollar in gold would weigh over fifteen hundred pounds.

PATENT COMBINED GANG PLOW, SEED SOWER AND HARROW.

We have purchased the right this great labor-saving implement for the State of California.

With this combined Machine one man, with six horses, can do the work of three twelve inch plows, besides sowing the grain, and harrowing it in as he proceeds, thus finishing his work in the best manner possible, without being obliged to travel over the plowed ground. This Machine has been very thoroughly tested. It is made very substantial; is not liable to get out of order, and being on large truck wheels, the Gang Plow, Seed Sower and Harrow, runs lighter than three plows would, cutting the same amount of land.

We are desirous of having these plows generally introduced throughout the State, and are therefore prepared to offer very favorable inducements to farmers and the trade.
